Symptom burden and quality of life after percutaneous coronary intervention in the elderly. The outcomes following coronary angioplasty in elderly patients are poor and without benefit. The burden of symptoms and quality of life is not well characterized. We assessed the symptoms and quality of life after coronary angioplasty in elderly patients. We surveyed patients referred for elective coronary angioplasty to University of California, San Francisco (UCSF) in 2000 and 2001. The survey included the Angina Severity Scale (ASS) questionnaire, and visual analog scales (VAS) to assess symptoms, health and financial impact of angina. Of 114 patients eligible, 97 (86%) responded. The average age was 70.7 +/- 5.3 years (range 58-80), and 88% were male. Nineteen percent were diabetic. After angioplasty, the majority (81%) reported improvement in symptoms, and the vast majority (94%) were satisfied with the outcome. Angina frequency was reduced by an average of 1.5 attacks per week, from 7.5 +/- 1.7 to 3.8 +/- 2.2 (P World Health Organization (WHO) declared the outbreak of the Zika virus epidemic in Brazil. WASHINGTON (AP) - A report on the FBI's handling of sexual assault cases has revealed a major change. The FBI's once-secret definition of what constitutes rape and sexual assault now includes male perpetrators of forced sex. The change was made earlier this month. The FBI's 2008 definition of rape was "a sexual act perpetrated against a person's will by using force, coercion, or threats." The definition does not mention "men" and "women" and any variation of the word "rape." The now-discarded definition said gender is irrelevant when the crime is "used in the commission of another felony." The new definition, which came out in late February, says "sexual act" includes "mutual masturbation." The definitions say "another felony" means felonies like murder, arson and burglary. The change was made quietly. The new definition dropped in with little fanfare with no mention on the FBI's website, public release on the FBI's criminal justice information system or even any emails warning that the definitions had been updated. The change was reported by the Washington Blade, a gay-rights newsweekly, in a story that noted that the new definition is broader than the one that many U.S. states use. The definition now includes men who commit forced or coerced vaginal and anal sex with an unconscious or non-consenting person. On Wednesday, a spokeswoman for the FBI told The Associated Press that the change was made to "bring the FBI's federal definition in line with the crime of rape as defined by various state criminal codes." The FBI did not give a reason for the change. The FBI did not immediately respond to a request for more information on when the change was made and whether any other changes were made in other parts of the definition. The change may not go over well with advocates, and at least one prominent former FBI official said the change is wrongheaded. Roger C. Mynderse, a former FBI special agent who was lead agency trainer in rape for the FBI, was dismayed by the change. "The FBI does not train agents as specialists on the nature of the crimes committed or the sex of the offender. They are trained to deal with the evidence they find," Mynderse said in a statement. "
